Penal Code
Part I
General Part
Chapter 1
General Provisions

Article 1 Role of the Penal Code

The Penal Code intends to safeguard the political, economic and social regimes of the Lao PDR, to protect interests of the State, the legitimate rights and interests of citizens, the life, health, dignity, rights and freedom of Lao people, national security and social order; to prevent and counter offences; and to teach all citizens to be aware of the laws.

In order to fulfill this role, the Penal Code defines certain acts which endanger the public as criminal offences and establishes penalties for the perpetrator(s).

Article 2 The Penal Code

This Penal Code is the compilation of provisions related to criminal offences and punishments into a single law.

Article 3 Definitions

Terms used in this Penal Code have the following meaning:

1. Penal Law means this Penal Code and other related laws which define criminal offences and punishments;

2. Other related Laws that define criminal offences and punishment refer to laws that define criminal offences and punishments promulgated after this Penal Code becomes effective;
3. Territory of the Lao PDR means the area where the Lao PDR is located on the world map including upper land, underground, waters and airspace, and the area where the offices of Lao diplomatic representatives are located, consulates, offices of permanent representatives of Lao PDR to international and regional organizations in foreign countries, including vehicles carrying a Lao flag, such as cars, boats, ships and aircraft as prescribed in International Conventions to which Lao PDR is a party;
4. Any person as stipulated in Chapter 1 to Chapter 11 of Part II of this Penal Code means offenders that includes natural persons and legal persons;
5. Any person as stipulated in Chapter 12 Part II of this Penal Code means army personnel in active service, reserve army personnel in the period of concentrated training, citizens requisitioned for service in the army, militiamen, self-defense personnel detached to army units in combat or combat service;
6. Legal person means an enterprise as stipulated in Enterprise Law, including cooperatives, domestic and foreign associations and foundations legally established as legal persons;
7. Moral consciousness means being conscious of knowing what is right and wrong when committing an act;
8. Sexual Intercourse means the use of each other's sexual organs or the use of one sexual organ with another's organ of the body;
9. A sexual act means putting a male's sexual organ into a female's sexual organ or putting a female sexual organ onto a male sexual organ or putting sexual organs into other organs of the body;
10. Pornography means the display of sexual organs and sexual behavior between humans;
11. Diplomatic immunities mean the rights of diplomats to be exempted from criminal proceedings as provided in International Conventions to which the Lao PDR is a party;
12. Prohibited goods mean the goods that are not allowed to be sold, exchanged, produced, imported or exported, or goods that must be under the control of relevant state organizations;
13. Black magic means non-scientifically proven magic or other superstitious practices;
14. Unlawful abortion means an abortion not authorized by a medical doctor commission;
15. Forbidden gambling means unauthorized gambling;
16. Person with mental disabilities means a person who has lost his or her mental functionalities;
17. Serious disease means an incurable disease;
18. Human flesh means cells of the human body, including sperm, tissue and fetuses;
19. Financial institution means commercial banks and other non-banking financial institutions such as micro financial institutions, credit cooperatives;
20. War objects means objects used in wartime.

Article 4 Basics of Criminal Liability

A person or legal person can be charged with criminal liability and be subject to criminal punishment only when the person or legal person has committed acts deemed dangerous for society as prescribed in this Penal Code and in other related Laws that prescribe criminal offences and punishment and when a final decision is rendered by a court.

Article 5 Basic Principles of the Penal Law

The basic principles of the Penal Law are as follows:

1. When offences occur there must be criminal liabilities;
2. The offenders bear liability for the offences;
3. The offenders' liability shall be based on the nature and degree of severity of the offence, the personality of the offenders and attenuating and aggravating circumstances.

Article 6 Obligation to Prevent and Combat Offences

Persons, legal entities and organizations are obliged to join and cooperate with investigation agencies, offices of People's Prosecutors, People's Courts and other organizations concerned in preventing and combating crimes aiming at eliminating the causes and conditions leading to criminal offences.

Article 7 Application of Provisions Contained in General Part of this Penal Code

The general provisions of the general part of this Penal Code shall also apply to offences as provided in other laws.

Chapter 2

Scope of Penal Law

Article 8 Application of the Penal Law within the Territory of the Lao PDR

The Penal law is applied to all offences committed on the territory of the Lao PDR.

A person or legal person who commits an offence within the territory of the Lao PDR shall be punished in accordance with the Penal Code of the Lao PDR.

In the event that diplomatic representatives or individuals enjoying diplomatic immunity, conferred by International Conventions to which the Lao PDR is a party, commit offences on the territory of the Lao PDR, these cases shall be settled based on the International Conventions to which the Lao PDR is a party or through diplomatic channels.

Article 9 Extraterritorial Application of the Penal Law

Lao citizens who commit offences outside the territory of the Lao PDR shall be charged with and punished for such offences if they are defined as offences under this Penal Code and other related Laws of the Lao PDR that define criminal offences and punishment.

Aliens and stateless individuals residing in the Lao PDR who commit offences outside the territory of the Lao PDR shall also be punished.

Foreign individuals who commit offences outside the territory of the Lao PDR, which infringe on the national interests of the Lao PDR or legitimate rights and interests of Lao citizens, shall also be punished.

Article 10 Period of Effectiveness of the Penal Law

The Penal Law applies from the date of its entry into force.

Any new law in this Penal Code calling for lighter penalties or eliminating any offence provided in former laws shall take retroactive effect.

Any new law in this Penal Code providing for new offences or calling for heavier punishment than what is provided in an earlier law shall not take retroactive effect.

Chapter 3
Offences and Offenders

Article 11 Offences

A criminal offence is an act or omission deemed dangerous to the political, economic or social regimes of the Lao PDR, to the interests of the State, legitimate rights and interests of citizens and organizations, to the lives, health, honor and dignity, rights and freedom of the people, or to national security or social order as provided in this Penal Code and other related laws of the Lao PDR that define criminal offences and punishment.

All acts or omissions that meet all the elements of a criminal offence but causes loss to the value of property worth less than one million (1,000,000) kip shall be settled by means of mediation or other forms of settlement, except for acts of mugging, robbery, acts of recidivism or acts performed on a regular basis.

Article 12 Components of Offences

The components of an offence refer to those objective and subjective characteristics of behavior that the Penal Code defines as an offence.

An offence consists of four components as follows:

1. Material component;
2. Objective component;

3. Subjective component; and
4. Actor's component.

The material component of an offence refers to any social relationship that is regulated under the Penal Code and that is affected by the offence.

The objective component of an offence refers to the external characteristics of the behavior that has caused or is evidence of an intention to cause damage to a social relationship that is regulated by the Penal Code, including the time, location, means, instrument, circumstances and methods used for committing the offence.

The subjective component of an offence refers to the characteristics of the attitude and state of mind of the offender regarding his/her act of offence, as expressed externally through the behavior that constitutes the offence.

The actor's component of an offence refers to the offender being either a natural or legal person, with full mental faculty, not insane, and having reached fifteen (15) years of age or above.

Article 13 Categorization of Offences

Offences are categorized into three different levels of culpability:

1. Minor offences, which are offences punishable under the law by public criticism or fines;
2. Major offences, which are offences punishable under the law by re-education without deprivation of liberty or imprisonment from three (3) months to ten (10) years and fines;
3. Crimes, which are offences punishable under the law by imprisonment from five (5) years up to life imprisonment with fines and/or the death penalty.

Article 14 Intentional Offences

Intentional offences are acts or omissions that the offender undertakes with full knowledge of their dangerous effect on society and their consequences but intends to commit or let occur.

Article 15 Negligent Offences

Negligent offences are acts or omissions undertaken carelessly by the offender despite full knowledge that such acts or omissions might be dangerous for society, and where the consequence is expected and possible to anticipate, although the offender does not believe or expect that such consequence would take place.

Article 16 Acts Constituting Several Categories of Offences

An act constituting several categories of offences is an act or several acts of infraction committed by an individual, where such act or acts are classifiable under two or more categories, transgress several articles of the Penal Law, and with respect to which a decision shall be rendered at the same time and in the same court.

Article 17 Repeated Offences

A repeated offence is more than two offences that are classified as the same or similar category of offence, where each offence has never been sentenced by a court and shall be brought to the same court.

Article 18 Double Offences

A double offence means two offences or more that are classified as different categories of offences, where none of the offences have not been sentenced by a court and shall be brought to the same court.

Article 19 Organized Crime

Organized crime means crimes committed by a group or groups of more than three persons organized within a period of time and who planned to commit major offences or crimes.

Article 20 Occupational Crime

Occupational crime means offences of the same or similar nature committed three times or more but for which no offender has been brought to justice.

Article 21 Recidivism

Recidivism is an offence committed by an individual who has been sentenced for the commission of a previous intentional offence but recommitted a new intentional offence whilst serving his/her sentence or commits a new intentional offence of the same nature or similar, within a following period:

1. One (1) year for a minor offence;
2. Five (5) years for a major offence;
3. Seven (7) years for a crime.

Article 22 Preparation to Commit Offences

Preparation to commit an offence is the preparation of the means or materials of the creation of conditions or other factors necessary in order to commit an intentional offence.

Preparation to commit an offence shall only be punished if deemed dangerous for society, as provided for in the specific part of the Penal Law.

Preparation to commit major offences or crimes shall be punished according to the articles prescribing penalties for the offence itself.

Preparation to commit minor offences shall not be punished.

Article 23 Attempt to Commit an Offence

An attempt to commit an offence is the intentional commission of part of the offence, but which is unsuccessful due to external circumstances that prevent the full offence from being committed.

Attempts to commit an offence shall be punished only if deemed dangerous for society, as provided in the Penal Law.

Attempts to commit an offence shall be punished according to the articles prescribing penalties for the offence itself.

Attempts to commit minor offences shall not be punished.

Article 24 Voluntary Abandonment of Offences

Any individual who voluntarily abandons the completion of an offence during its preparation or attempt shall not bear criminal liability, unless any act of preparation or attempt which he/she has taken is an offence of another nature.

Article 25 Offender

An offender is a person or a legal person who commits any acts or omissions that endangers society and that have all the components of an offence as prescribed in this Penal Code.

Article 26 Participation in an Offence

Participation in an offence refers to intentional participation in an offence by two or more persons.

The participants can include:

1. Authors;
2. Implementers;
3. Inciters; or
4. Accomplices.

Article 27 Authors

The author is the one who plans, organizes and gives instructions to commit the offence.

Article 28 Implementers

The implementer is the one who has directly committed the offence.

Article 29 Inciters

The inciter is the one who persuades, mobilizes, and encourages others to commit the offence.

Article 30 Accomplices

The accomplice is the one who intentionally assists in the offence or who, prior to the offence, commits to conceal or cover the offender, instruments and tools of the offence, to efface traces of the offence or to conceal any proceeds from the offence.

Chapter 4

Prescription in Criminal Proceedings And Exemption from Criminal Liabilities

Article 31 Prescription of Criminal Proceedings

Prescription of criminal proceedings is the term for prosecution of criminal cases as provided for in this Penal Code. If the term has ended, then the prosecution of criminal cases shall not be possible.

Terms of prescription are as follows:

1. One (1) year for a minor offence;
2. Seven (7) years for a major offence; and
3. Fifteen (15) years for a crime.

Terms of prescription of criminal proceedings shall commence from the date when the offence is committed. Where a new offence is committed within the terms of earlier prescription of the offence, the terms of prescription shall start from the date that the new offence is committed. Where an offender escapes from custody, the terms of prescription shall commence from the date that the offender is presented to the court or is arrested.

Article 32 Non-application of Terms of Prescription

Terms of prescription as stated in Article 31 of this Penal Code shall not apply to acts of genocide and crimes against national security as specified in Chapter 1 of Part II of this Penal Code, except offences for forgery of bank notes, use of forged bank notes and money laundering.

Article 33 Circumstances that Lead to Exemption from Criminal Liability

Circumstances that lead to exemption from criminal liability are as follows:

1. Expiration of the terms of prescription

2. Force or duress;
3. Legitimate defenses;
4. State of necessity;
5. Performance of a professional duty;
6. Obeying an order;
7. Sport practices; and
8. Offences against which complaints must be lodged by the damaged parties.

Article 34 Expiration of Terms of Prescription

The expiration of terms of prescription is the end of terms of prescription as defined in Article 31 of this Penal Code.

The expiration of the terms of prescription of criminal proceedings leads to the exemption of criminal liability.

Article 35 Force and Threat

Any individual committing an offence under force or threat of force in circumstances where such force or threat of force could not have been avoided shall not bear criminal liabilities.

In the event that such offence is a crime, the use of force or threat of force shall constitute extenuating circumstances for criminal punishment only

Article 36 Legitimate Defense

Acts of legitimate defense are acts taken by an individual to safeguard the interests of the State or society, to safeguard his/her own or another individual's life, health, or legitimate rights and interests against acts of aggression regarded as public danger; provided that the acts of aggression truly exist and are dangerous, and that the acts of legitimate defense against act of aggression must be proportional to the acts of aggression.

Article 37 State of Necessity

Any act taken in a state of necessity means an act taken by an individual which is necessary to avoid threats against the interests of the State or society, or against his/her own or another individual's life, health, or legitimate rights and interests, where such threats cannot be avoided by other methods and where the damage caused by such act is less than the damage that would have resulted from the threat.

Article 38 Performance of Professional Duty

The performance of a professional duty shall be regarded as a circumstance that leads to exemption from criminal liability if it meets the following criteria:

1. The act shall be within the scope of the rights and duties [of the actor]; and
2. The act shall be in conformity with professional duties and laws.

Article 39 Obeying an Order

Obeying an order shall be regarded as a circumstance that leads to exemption from criminal liability if it meets the following criteria:

1. The actor shall have received an order from a person who has the right and duty to issue the order;
2. The order shall be issued in conformity with laws;
3. The person obeying the order shall have the right and duty to obey such order; and
4. The person obeying the order shall implement the order within the scope of the order and in conformity with laws.

Article 40 Sport practices

Sport practices shall be regarded as a circumstance that leads to exemption from criminal liabilities if the sport practices are conducted within the rules of the sport.

Article 41 Offences Against which Complaint Must be Lodged by the Damaged Parties

No criminal proceedings shall be brought in respect of offences that do not cause public danger and in respect of which the damaged party does not lodge any complaint.

Offences that do not cause public danger but require complaint by the damaged parties, include the following matters:

1. Physical violence between close relatives without serious injury or physical disability, except for acts of physical violence against women and children, elderly persons aged sixty (60) years or over or people with disabilities or acts performed on a regular basis or in state of recidivism;
2. Libel, slander, insult, and outrage to the body or the reputation of the dead;
3. Adultery;
4. Infraction of private property of close relatives; and
5. Violation of domicile and privacy.

The withdrawal of a complaint lodged by the damaged party shall terminate such criminal proceedings.

Chapter 5

Penalties

Article 42 Penalties

A penalty is a compulsory State measure as prescribed in the Penal Law used to restrict or revoke the rights and interests of offenders.

Article 43 Purposes of Penalties

Penalties are not only aimed at punishing the offenders, but they also intend to re-educate punished individuals to purify their spirit towards work, to properly and strictly comply with the laws, to respect social rules, and to avoid recidivism on the part of the punished offender and other individuals.

Penalties are not aimed at generating physical suffering or outrage to human dignity.

Article 44 Categories of Punishment

Penalties are composed of principal, additional and alternative penalties.

Principal penalties are the following:

1. Public criticism;
2. Fines;
3. Re-education without deprivation of liberty;
4. Expulsion;
5. Deprivation of liberty with terms;
6. Life imprisonment; and
7. Death penalty.

Additional penalties are the following:

1. Fines not intended as a principal penalty;
2. Confiscation of property;
3. Confiscation of items connected to the offence;
4. Deprivation of the right to vote and the right to be elected;
5. House arrest;
6. Expulsion not intended as a principal penalty;
7. Restoration;
8. Withdrawal of license; and

9. Forbidding the offender to perform a function or duty or to exercise a profession, including the withdrawal of medals or titles.

For major offences, the court may pronounce one or two additional penalties instead of a principal penalty.

Alternative penalties are the following:

1. Working for public utilities; and
2. Space restriction.

The court may apply alternative penalties instead of either principal and/or additional penalties.

Article 45 Public Criticism

Public criticism is criticizing the offender at the court hearing. If deemed necessary, the court's decision might be published in a newspaper or by other methods.

Article 46 Fines

Fines are financial penalties determined by the court according to the case in hand and are within the monetary limits as stated by the applicable law. The fine must be computed in accordance with the gravity of the offence, on the basis of the offender's economic status and the costs of living at each period. The fines shall be transferred to the treasury of the State.

The fines must be paid in full or in instalments within a period of the court's decision. In the event that the offender does not have the capacity to pay the fine, the court may commute such fine into the penalty of working for public utilities or the penalty of re-education without deprivation of liberty. In the event the offender cannot pay fines as per court's decision and serving deprivation of liberty, the court may commute the fines into working for public utilities or re-education without deprivation of liberty

It is forbidden to commute a fine into deprivation of liberty and vice versa in cases where the offence is prescribed a penalty of more than three (3) years.

For economic and financial offences for which the law prescribes deprivation of liberty less than three (3) years, except for recidivism or offences committed on a regular basis, the fine can be prescribed as a principal penalty; however, if the offender cannot pay the fines, the fines can be commuted by the court into deprivation of liberty by counting one (1) day of deprivation of liberty as being equal to the minimum daily remuneration of a worker.

Article 47 Re-education without Deprivation of Liberty

Re-education without deprivation of liberty is a punishment inflicted upon the offender at his/her place of work or at other locations, and pursuant to which five (5) to twenty (20) per cent of his/her total salary is remitted to the State in accordance with the court's decision.

A penalty of re-education without deprivation of liberty shall not exceed one (1) year.

Article 48 Expulsion

Expulsion is a penalty inflicted upon foreign offenders having to leave the territory of the Lao PDR for a period of not less than ten (10) years. The court may use expulsion as a principal penalty or an additional penalty on a case by case basis. The expulsion shall be imposed in cases of major offences causing serious damage and in the case of crime.

Article 49 Deprivation of Liberty with Terms

Deprivation of liberty with terms is the deprivation of liberty for a period ranging from three (3) months to twenty (20) years that the sentenced persons shall serve in the detention center.

Article 50 Life Imprisonment

Life imprisonment is a deprivation of liberty for an unlimited period of time, applied to a person having committed a very serious offence, where it is not suitable to impose the death penalty.

Life imprisonment may not be imposed on offenders of less than eighteen (18) years old and on women in a state of pregnancy when the offence is committed, but instead a deprivation of liberty with a term of twenty (20) years may be imposed.

Article 51 Death Penalty

The death penalty is the special punishment to be imposed on offenders in especially serious cases as stated in the specific part of this Penal Code and other related Laws with criminal offences and punishments.

The death penalty is carried out by shooting.

It is forbidden to inflict a death sentence on offenders of less than eighteen years old, on pregnant women, on women nursing their children under three years, on elderly persons sixty years of age and over and on persons with mental disabilities at the time when the offence was committed, when the court renders its decision, or when the sentence is served by commuting the sentence to life imprisonment.

Article 52 Confiscation of Assets

Confiscation of assets is the confiscation by the State of all or part of an offender's property, except property used to commit the offences or constituting crime proceeds, without any compensation by focusing only on the most serious crimes as prescribed in the Penal Law.

In the event of the confiscation of all of the offender's property, exception shall be made for assets that are indispensable for the livelihood of the offender and his/her family, such as the permanent dwelling of the sentenced person, animals for those working as farmers, objects necessary for the daily life of the sentenced person and of any persons under the custody of the sentenced person. In the event that partial confiscation of property is imposed, the court shall draw up a clear list of assets to be confiscated.

The property belonging to the State cannot be forfeited and must be returned to the relevant agencies.

Article 53 Confiscation of Objects (Items)

Confiscation of items is the confiscation of items used to commit an offence or for which the offence is committed or crime proceeds obtained from an intentional offence to become state property.

Confiscation of items connected to the offence may be imposed for major offences and crimes.

Items belonging to other individuals used to commit the offence shall be confiscated by the State when the owner of the items gave them to the offender in bad faith or if the confiscation of those assets is deemed necessary for the safeguard of the society.

Items belonging to the State shall not be confiscated but shall be returned to the relevant organization.

Article 54 Withdrawal of the Right to Vote and to be Elected

Withdrawal of the right to vote and to be elected is the suppression of the rights of offenders who have committed crimes to vote and to be elected.

The penalty of withdrawal of the rights to vote and to be elected must not exceed five (5) years from the date after he/she has finished serving his/her sentence or termination of limitation period for execution of the court's judgment.

Article 55 Prohibition of Residence (House Arrest)

House arrest forbids the sentenced offender from leaving a place of residence or from entering other territories as assigned or forbidden by a decision of the court.

House arrest must not exceed five (5) years from the day after he/she has finished serving his/her penalty.

The sentence of house arrest may not be imposed on offenders of less than eighteen (18) years old or on pregnant women or women in charge of children under eight (8) years of age at the time when the offence is committed.

House arrest is specified in the specific part of this Penal Code.

Article 56 Restoration

Restoration is a court measure imposed on an offender to restore or rehabilitate the environment to its original state, such as rehabilitation of forest, water, soil, odor or air.

Article 57 Withdrawal of License

Withdrawal of license is the revocation of an offender's license, namely his/her driving license, investment license, business license, exploration of natural resources license or other such licenses.

The court may decide to revoke the driving license of an offender if the offence constitutes a triple violation of traffic rules or caused an accident or if the offence caused serious damage.

Article 58 Forbidding the Offender to Hold a Position, Perform a Function or Duty, to Exercise a Profession, Withdrawal of Orders, Medals or Titles

Forbidding the offender to hold a position, to perform a function or duty or to exercise a profession, the revocation of orders, medals or titles is prohibiting the offender to perform a function or duty or to exercise a profession or withdrawal the offender's orders, medals or titles.

Article 59 Working for Public utilities

Working for public utilities is working for the public interest or any socially beneficial work that the court may impose on an offender for a major offence for which the law prescribes imprisonment of not more than three (3) years. This work for public utilities shall not affect human dignity and is performed without any remuneration.

The penalty of working for public utilities imposed on offenders shall not be less than sixty (60) hours and shall not exceed seven hundred and fifty (750) hours.

By imposing a penalty of this nature, the court shall take into consideration the purpose of the penalties, the nature of the offence and the personality and consent of the offender. The court may impose the penalty of working for public utilities to replace the penalty of a fine or the penalty of deprivation of liberty for not more than three (3) years or may replace both penalties.

Where the offender fails to serve this sentence of work for public utilities, the court shall commute this penalty into deprivation of liberty with terms by calculating every eight (8) hours of working for public utilities as one (1) day of deprivation of liberty.

Article 60 Space restriction

Space restriction is the confinement of the sentenced offender to a place or area of residence as provided for in the court's decision. If deemed necessary, an authorization from the court shall be obtained.

Space restriction shall be imposed on an offender for a maximum period of six (6) months.

Space restriction is an alternative penalty that the court can use to commute fines or deprivation of liberty for which the Law prescribes deprivation of liberty not exceeding three (3) years except for recidivism or offences committed on a regular basis, taking into account the nature of the offence and personality of the offender.

Chapter 6 Prescription of Penalties

Article 61 General Principle on the Prescription of Penalties

The court prescribes penalties in accordance with the legal provisions on the punishment of offences.

In prescribing penalties, the court must consider the nature and degree of the social threat posed by the offence, the personality of the offender, and circumstances conducive to the reduction or the increase of criminal liability.

Article 62 Severity of Offences

The severity of an offence is determined based on the category of the offence and the methods used to commit the offence.

Categories of offences refer to minor offences, major offences and crimes as stipulated in Article 13 of this Penal Code.

Methods used to commit the offence refer to methods used to commit the offence such as torture, outrageous acts towards the victim or by methods causing public danger.

Article 63 Degree of Severity

The level of danger posed by an offence depends on the actual loss of life, health, honor, dignity or property caused by the intentional offence or negligence.

There are three levels of loss to property as follows:

1. Low level or minor loss, amounting to less than twenty million (20,000,000) kip;
2. Medium level or medium loss, ranging from twenty million (20,000,000) kip to fifty million (50,000,000) kip; and
3. High level or substantial loss, amounting to more than fifty million (50,000,000) kip.

Article 64 Circumstances Conducive to the Mitigation of Criminal Liabilities

Circumstances conducive to the mitigation of criminal liabilities are:

1. The offender is less than eighteen (18) years old or above sixty (60) years old;
2. A female offender's state of pregnancy or any woman nursing a baby under three (3) years of age;
3. An excessive legitimate defense;
4. An offence committed under strong emotional shock generated by an illegal act of the victim;
5. An offence committed with excessive necessity;
6. A crime committed under force or threat of force;
7. An offender prevents and repairs damage caused by his/her offence or voluntarily compensates for the damages in good faith;
8. An offence committed due to the offender's seriously difficult situation or that of his/her family.
9. The offender expresses remorse and surrenders to officials, and confesses the details of the offences committed by him/her and others;
10. The offence is the first offence and such offence does not cause serious public danger;
11. An offender has shown merit towards the nation.

In the prescription of penalties, the court may take into consideration other factors that are not defined in this article.

Article 65 Circumstances Conducive to the Increase of Criminal Liabilities

Circumstances conducive to the increase of penal responsibilities are

1. Recidivism;
2. Offences committed by organized groups;
3. Offences committed out of greed;
4. Offence towards the State's property;
5. Offences of civil servants and government's officials;

6. Offences towards minors, elderly people, vulnerable persons or persons materially or in other ways dependent on or under the authority of the offender;
7. Initiation of minors into committing or participating in offences;
8. Barbarous or outrageous acts of infraction towards the victim;
9. Offences with serious consequences;
10. Offences committed during emergency situations;
11. Offences committed through dangerous methods for the public;
12. Offences committed in a state of drunkenness or drug abuse. Based on the nature of the committed offences, the court has the absolute right to decide whether or not to increase the penal responsibilities;
13. Intentional imposition of guilt on honest persons;
14. Offenders are found guilty of concealing other offences or using violence to escape.

Article 66 Prescription of Penalties for Offences Pertaining to Several Articles

The prescription of penalties for an offence pertaining to several articles shall be made on the basis of the legal provision providing for the heaviest punishment.

The prescription of a total penalty for several offences pertaining to several articles shall be made by accumulating the penalties for each separate offence, but the final result shall not exceed ten (10) years for major offences and twenty (20) years for crimes. Where there are several offences in violation of several articles pertaining to major offences or crimes, the crime shall be considered as the main penalty.

For crimes for which the law prescribes life imprisonment or the death penalty, the penalty imposed will be the penalty defined in relevant article or paragraph.

Where there is prescription of a total penalty for accumulative offences in violation of several articles, legal provision shall be made providing for equal punishment by accumulating the penalties for each separate offence, but the final result must not exceed the highest penalty that could have been imposed for the most serious offence among such offences.

The court may add additional penalties to the principal penalties in the event that such additional penalties are prescribed for in the Penal Law.

In the event that a court decision has been rendered and become final or the offender has served the sentence in part or in whole, but it transpires that additional offences had previously been committed by the offender, the prescription of penalties must be made according to the above-mentioned procedures.

Fines must be prescribed based on each offence separately, and cannot be subject to the above-mentioned procedures for accumulating and consolidating penalties.

Article 67 Prescription of Penalties for Repetitive and Double Offences

Prescription of penalties for repetitive and double offences shall be made as in accordance with the procedure as defined in Article 66 of this Penal Code.

Article 68 Prescription of Penalties for Recidivism

Prescription of penalties for recidivism in major offences or in accumulative offences shall be made by adding the penalty that the court would impose to the offender in the ordinary case to the half of such penalty.

Recidivism in crimes is conducive to an increase of penal responsibilities as stated in Article 65 of this Penal Code.

In the event that the offender commits a new offence after a court decision has been rendered and become final, or while the offender is serving his/her sentence, the court shall add the remaining part of the penalty which is still due to be executed to the newly imposed penalty.

Article 69 Prescription of Penalties for the Preparation of Offences

Prescription of penalties for the preparation of offences shall take into consideration the nature and degree of social threat of the offences, the extent to which the offender acted on his/her ill intentions, and the causes of such unsuccessful offences.

In prescribing penalties for the preparation of offences, the court may impose sentences with lighter penalties than those prescribed by the Law.

Article 70 Prescription of Penalties for the Attempts to Commit Offences

Prescription of penalties for the attempts to commit offences shall take into consideration their nature and degree of social threat, the extent to which the offender acted on his/her ill intentions and other causes of such unsuccessful offences.

In prescribing penalties for the attempt to commit offences, the court may impose sentences with lighter penalties than those prescribed by the Law.

Article 71 Prescription of Penalties on Authors

The court shall impose penalties on the participant in accordance with the penalties prescribed under the Law for the author of such offence.

The penalty to be imposed on the authors may be higher than the penalty that will be imposed on other participants based upon the nature and degree of the social threat posed by the offence, the personality of the author and circumstances conducive to the reduction or the increase of criminal liabilities.

Article 72 Prescription of Penalties for Implementers

The court may impose the same penalty on the implementer as imposed on the author based upon the nature and degree of the social threat posed by the offence, the personality of the implementer, and circumstances conducive to the reduction or the increase of criminal liabilities.

Article 73 Prescription of Penalties for Inciters

The court may impose the same penalties on the inciters of an offence as those imposed on other participants or lighter than what is prescribed by the Law based on the level and nature of incitement.

For incitement to commit an offence that the Law prescribes life imprisonment or the death penalty for, the court may reduce the sentence to deprivation of liberty from fifteen (15) years to twenty (20) years.

Article 74 Prescription of Penalties for Accomplices

The penalty inflicted on accomplices is the same penalty as inflicted on other participants or lighter than what is prescribed by the Law based on level and nature of incitement.

In prescribing penalties on accomplices to an offence where the Law prescribes the death penalty or life imprisonment, the court may reduce the sentence to deprivation of liberty from fifteen (15) years to twenty (20) years.

Article 75 Prescription of Penalties for Offences having Circumstances Conducive to the Reduction of Criminal Liabilities

The prescription of a penalty for an offence having circumstances conducive to the reduction of criminal liabilities shall be made based upon the nature and degree of the social threat posed by the offence, degree of its completion, the intention, profile, ~~history~~, and personality of the offender.

In prescribing a penalty for an offence having circumstances conducive to the reduction of criminal liabilities, the court may impose sentences with lighter penalties than what is prescribed by the Law.

Article 76 Prescription of Penalties for Offences having Circumstances Conducive to the Increase of Criminal Liabilities

The prescription of a penalty for an offence having circumstances conducive to the increase of criminal liabilities shall be made based upon the nature and degree of the social threat posed by the offence, degree of its completion, the intention, profile, history and the personality of the offender.

In prescribing a penalty for an offence having circumstances conducive to the increase of criminal liabilities, the court shall impose sentences with penalties not exceeding the limits of the relevant articles.

Article 77 Prescription of Penalties for Offences having Circumstances Conducive to the Reduction and the Increase of Criminal Liabilities

The prescription of a penalty for an offence having circumstances conducive to the reduction and the increase of criminal liabilities shall be made based upon the nature and degree of the social threat posed by the offence, degree of its completion and the intention, profile, history and personality of the offender.

Article 78 Prescription of a Lighter Penalty than what is prescribed by the Law

The prescription of a lighter penalty than what is prescribed by the Law is the prescription of a penalty lower than the limits of what the legal provisions prescribe on the punishment of offences, except for paragraph 2 of Article 73, paragraph 2 of Article 74 and paragraph 5 of Article 86 of this Penal Code.

In prescribing a lighter penalty than what is prescribed by the Law, the court shall consider the nature and degree of the social threat posed by the offence, the personality of the offender and circumstances conducive to the reduction of criminal liabilities.

The prescription of a lighter penalty than what is prescribed by the Law shall not be less than half of the minimum penalty provided by the Law.

However, in special cases, if it is proven that the offender has acted for the protection of society or other people, the court can pronounce penalties inferior to half of the minimum penalty as provided for in the relevant articles of this Penal Law.

In the case of one offence or offences violating many articles or paragraphs in the same article, the prescription of lighter penalties than what is prescribed by Law shall not be less than half of the minimum penalty prescribed in the relevant article or paragraph that provides the heaviest penalty.

Article 79 Suspension of Execution of Penalty

The suspension of execution of the deprivation of liberty with terms, re-education without deprivation of liberty or fines as the principal penalty, is the suspension of the execution of such penalties for a period of five (5) years. If during this period, the offender is not convicted of any other intentional offence, the penalty shall be lifted. But in the event that a second intentional offence is committed, if the offender is sentenced to deprivation of liberty with terms, re-education without deprivation of liberty or a fine as the principal penalty and such a sentence is final, then the offender must execute the new penalty in addition to the one which has been suspended.

The suspension of the execution of a penalty can be in whole or in part.

For recidivists, those offenders sentenced to three (3) years of deprivation of liberty or more or those sentenced for crimes cannot benefit from the suspension of execution of penalties. However, in exceptional cases, if it is proven that the offender has acted for the protection of society or other people, then the court can grant the suspension of the execution of penalty even for a crime.

Article 80 Inclusion of Preventive Custody in the Execution of the Penalty

The total duration of preventive custody must be included in the duration of execution of sentences of deprivation of liberty or of re-education without deprivation of liberty.

One (1) day of preventive custody is equal to one (1) day of deprivation of liberty or three (3) days of re-education without deprivation of liberty.

Article 81 Sending Offenders to Administrative Authorities or Relevant Organizations for Re-education

If it is determined that the offence constitutes a minor offence and that the offender's personality does not present any threat towards society, then the court may send the offender to the local administrative authorities, other State organizations, mass organizations, civil society organizations or religious institutions for re-education.

Chapter 7

The Court's Measures

Article 82 Measures Applied by the Court towards Mentally Ill Offenders

Offenders committing offences under a state of mental illness or offenders in possession of their full faculties during the offence who become subject to mental illness before a sentence is imposed by the court or while serving the sentence, may benefit from measures pertaining to medical treatment, such as being sent to psychiatric hospitals or specific treatment centers.

After recovering from such an illness to his/her state of mental health, the offender must be brought back and sentenced by the court or the sentence must be executed if the lodged complaint or the court's decision is still valid.

The duration of medical treatment is to be included in calculating the period of execution of the sentence.

Article 83 Measures Applied by the Court towards Offenders Addicted to Alcohol or Drugs or Other such Addictions

For offenders addicted to alcohol or drugs or other such addictions, who have committed offences and are not sentenced to deprivation of liberty, the court may apply measures of medical treatment in asylums or specific treatment centers.

In the event that such an addicted offender is sentenced to deprivation of liberty, the court must apply measures of medical treatment whilst the offender is serving his/her sentence, and if after completion of such penalties, the medical treatment is yet to be completed, the court may apply measures for medical treatment by sending the offender to rehabilitation centers for alcohol or drug addiction, or entrusting him/her to receive care by local administrative authorities, other State organizations, mass organizations or civil society organizations to continue his/her re-education and medical treatment.

After recovering from such an addiction or substance abuse, the offender must be brought back and sentenced by the court or the sentence must be served if the lodged complaint or the court decision is still valid.

The duration of medical treatment is to be included in calculating the period of execution of the sentence.

Chapter 8 Juvenile Offenders

Article 84 Juvenile Offenders

Juvenile offenders are offenders aged between fifteen (15) and eighteen (18) years who commit an act or omission causing public danger for which the law provides more than three (3) years of imprisonment or less than three years of imprisonment where crimes are committed without a confession by the juvenile offender or where the other party is not willing to mediate; in the case of recidivism, the offence has to have been performed on a regular basis.

Article 85 Principles for Handling Juvenile Offenders

Principles for Handling of Juvenile Offenders shall be as follows:

1. Handling of juvenile offenders aims mainly at educating and helping them, addressing their wrongdoings, developing them into contributing members of society;
2. In all cases of investigation, prosecution and adjudication of criminal acts committed by juveniles, the competent State agencies shall determine the level of danger to society by their criminal acts and the causes and conditions of such criminal acts;

3. Juvenile offenders may be exempted from criminal liabilities if they commit minor offences, not causing great harm, involving mitigating circumstances and are being supervised, monitored and educated by their parents, guardians, agencies or organizations.

In rendering a decision, the court may apply one of the measures as provided in Article 87 of this Penal Code if it is considered that the imposition of a penalty on juvenile offenders is not needed.

Article 86 Prescription of Penalties for Juvenile Offenders

In prescribing penalties for a child who commits an offence, the court shall take into account the nature and level of danger posed to society by such an offence, the personality of the child, consequences, environment, motivation and circumstances to reduce or increase criminal liabilities.

Imposing the penalty of deprivation of liberty on juvenile offenders must be a final measure, only for serious offences and for the shortest possible period.

If deprivation of liberty for a juvenile offender is deemed necessary, then the court may prescribe half of a penalty which would be imposed on an offender over eighteen (18) years of age or a lighter sentence than what is prescribed by Law.

It is prohibited to impose the death penalty and life imprisonment on juvenile offenders.

For offences where the Law prescribes life imprisonment, the sentence shall be reduced to ten (10) years of deprivation of liberty for juvenile offenders. Where the Law prescribes the death penalty, the sentence shall be reduced to twenty (20) years of deprivation of liberty for juvenile offenders.

Article 87 Measures Applied by the Court towards Juvenile Offenders

For children under fifteen (15) years of age who committed an act that did not cause danger to the public, the following measures may be applied:

1. To educate the child to make them understand the offences;
2. To require the child to express pardon by appropriate means;
3. To require the parents or guardians to pay civil compensation;
4. To send the child back to his/her parents, guardians or to relevant organizations for warning, re-education and close monitoring;
5. To require the child to present himself/herself to relevant agencies on specified dates and times; and

6. Using other measures as deemed appropriate according to the age of the child such as working for public utilities.

The court may apply the above-mentioned measures to juveniles from fifteen (15) years of age but less than eighteen (18) years of age who have committed minor and major offences for which the law prescribes deprivation of liberty for less than three (3) years.

Chapter 9

Legal Person's Offence

Article 88 Offence committed by a Legal Person

An offence committed by a legal person is an offence committed by an agent or a representative of a legal person.

Article 89 Criminal Liability of a Legal Person

A legal person shall be liable for an offence if:

1. The offence is committed on behalf of the legal person;
2. The offence is committed in the interests of the legal person; or
3. The offence is committed under the supervision, management and decision of the legal person.

The criminal liability of the legal person does not exclude criminal liability for the individual who committed the offence.

Article 90 Prescription of a Penalty on a Legal Person

The principal penalty imposed on a legal person should be a fine.

The fine imposed on a legal person shall be double the punishment imposed on the natural person.

Aside from the fine for the legal person, the court may decide to dissolve the business or prohibit it from operating certain types of businesses, to prohibit it from mobilizing funds or from using checks or credit cards, confiscate its property or require the business to make reparations.

Article 91 Dissolution of a Legal Person's Business

The dissolution of a legal person's business is a court measure imposed on legal persons who have committed an offence, in order for them to cease their business upon consideration by the court that if the legal person continues its business activities, that it may cause harm and represent a danger to society and the environment.

Article 92 Prohibiting Legal Persons from Operating Certain Types of Business

Prohibiting a legal person from operating certain types of businesses is a temporary cessation of types of businesses related to the legal person's offence ranging from one (1) year to five (5) years.

Article 93 Prohibiting a Legal Person from Mobilizing Funds

Prohibiting a legal person from mobilizing funds is the prohibition of mobilizing external funds for not more than five (5) years, such as loans from banks, trade securities or the establishment of funds or foundations for fund mobilization purposes.

Article 94 Prohibiting a Legal Person from Using Checks or Credit Cards

Prohibiting a legal person from using checks or credit cards is the prohibition of such persons from using checks or credit cards for a maximum period of five (5) years.

Article 95 Confiscation of Legal Person's Objects

The confiscation of objects belonging to a legal person must comply with Article 53 of this Penal Code.

Article 96 Rehabilitation

The court may apply rehabilitation measures on a legal person who commits an offence as provided for in Article 56 of this Penal Code.

Chapter 10

Circumstances Conducive to the Exemption from Penalties, Suspension of the Penalty of Deprivation of Liberty and Conditional Liberation before end of Term

Article 97 Circumstances Conducive to the Exemption from Penalties

Punishment shall be lifted under the following circumstances:

1. Death of the offender;
2. Expiry of the time limit for the execution of the court's decision;
3. Pardon being granted to the offender; and
4. An amnesty being granted to the offender.

Article 98 Death of Offender

Punishment of an offender shall be lifted if he/she dies.

Article 97 Limitation Period for the Execution of a Court's Judgment

The sentences imposed by the court shall not be executed if they exceed the following time limits:

1. One (1) year for minor offences;
2. Seven (7) years for major offences; and
3. Fifteen (15) years for crimes.

The time limit runs from the date that the court's sentence becomes final. In the event that the offender commits a new offence, the time limit for the execution of the court's decision in respect of any previous unexecuted sentence shall re-start on the date that the second offence is committed. In the event that the offender evades their sentence during the period where the sentence is still effective, then the time limit shall be counted again from the date that the offender surrenders or is arrested.

Article 100 Pardon is granted to an Offender

The pardon granted to an offender is a presidential decision to reduce or lift remaining sentences and to free a sentenced person.

Article 101 Amnesty

An amnesty is the abolishment of a criminal offence.

The sentence of a criminal offence shall be lifted if the National Assembly approves the amnesty and the President promulgates it.

Article 102 Exemption from Execution of a Court Sentence

Where a person who is sentenced to re-education without deprivation of liberty or sentenced to less than three (3) years of imprisonment but has not yet served his/her sentence but has made a significant contribution to the nation or suffers from serious illness, then the court may decide, upon the proposal of the People's prosecutor, to exempt the person from the execution of the entire sentence, if such persons no longer represent a danger to the public.

For offenders of minor offences who have had their sentences temporarily suspended as prescribed in Article 103 of this Penal Code, and if during the period of reprieve, they have performed significant benefits for the nation, then the court, upon the proposal of the People's Prosecutor, may decide to exempt them from execution of their remaining sentence.

Article 103 Suspension from Execution of a Court Sentence

Sentenced persons may be entitled to a reprieve in the following cases where:

1. They suffer from serious illness that is certified by a doctor's commission, then they shall be entitled to a reprieve until they make a recovery and then will be brought to serve their sentence;

2. Women who are pregnant or nursing their children of less than one (1) year. They will be brought to serve their sentence when their babies are more than one year of age;

3. Persons sentenced to less than three (3) years of imprisonment who constitute the main breadwinners in their respective families and if this imprisonment sentence seriously affects their families then they shall be entitled to suspend their sentence for one (1) year; or

4. If the sentenced person has to perform official duties certified by his/her respective organization, except for offences representing a danger to the public and posing a threat to national security, he/she shall be entitled to suspend their sentence for one year.

The period of reprieve that the sentenced persons are entitled to shall not be counted in the execution of their sentence.

Article 104 Conditional Liberation

Conditional liberation is the release of prisoners who have served part of their sentences, where the offender is reforming and repenting, has conducted exemplary work within the detention center, has changed their attitude and has expressed remorse for their past acts.

Prisoners who are eligible to be considered for conditional liberation must meet the following conditions:

1. Offenders who are less than eighteen (18) years old at the time that the offence was committed and who have served half of their sentence;

2. Adult offenders who have served two thirds (2/3) of the sentence; and

3. Offenders sentenced to life imprisonment who have served fifteen (15) years of the sentence.

Recidivist offenders or offenders sentenced to the death penalty whose sentence has been commuted into imprisonment cannot be granted conditional liberation.

Chapter 11

Remission of Criminal Records

Article 105 Criminal Records Remission

Persons entitled to criminal record remission shall be considered as having never been convicted.

Criminal record remission is provided for in Articles 106 and 107 of this Penal Code.

Article 106 Automatic Remission of Criminal Records

The following persons shall automatically have their criminal records remitted :

1. Persons who are exempted from penalties as provided for in Article 102 of this Penal Code;
2. Persons whose sentences have been suspended and do not commit new crimes within one (1) year after the suspended period is over;
3. Persons having completely served their sentences of deprivation of liberty or after the expiry of the limitation period for execution of the court's judgment, do not commit new offences within the following time limits:
 - One (1) year for minor offences;
 - Five (5) years for major offences; and
 - Seven (7) years for crimes.

If the convicted persons whose criminal records have not been remitted commit new crimes, then the duration of remission for the previous criminal record is to be counted from the date of complete serving the penalty of a new sentence or from the date of expiration of the limitation period for execution of the court's judgment.

Article 107 Criminal Record Remission by the Court's Decision

The court decides on the criminal record remission for persons charged with crimes defined in Chapter 1 Part II of this Code, depending on the nature of the offences committed, the personality of the offenders, the sentence being served and their work ethic.

The court shall consider the criminal record remission as stipulated in the above-mentioned paragraph in the following cases:

1. The convicted persons have been sentenced to imprisonment for up to five (5) years without committing new crimes within three (3) years of completing their sentences or after the expiry of the limitation period for execution of the court's judgment;

2. The convicted persons have been sentenced to imprisonment for between five (5) years and fifteen (15) years without committing new crimes within five (5) years of completing their sentences or after the expiry of the limitation period for execution of the court's judgment;

3. The convicted persons have been sentenced to imprisonment for over fifteen (15) years or have been sentenced to life imprisonment or have received the death penalty and have been granted a Presidential pardon to reduce the penalty, without having committed any new crimes within seven (7) years of completing their sentences or the expiry of the limitation period for execution of the court's judgment.

The application for criminal record remission must be filed by the convicted persons or his/her guardians to the concerned court. If the court rejects the application for the first time, the applicant must wait for one (1) more year before submitting another application therefor, if the court rejects the application for the second time, the applicant must wait for two (2) years before applying for a criminal record remission.

Article 108 Remission of Criminal Records of Legal Person

The convicted legal persons shall be automatically remitted from criminal records if they do not commit new crimes within a one (1)-year period after having completely served their sentence.

Article 109 Criminal Record Remission of Juvenile Offenders

The period for criminal remission of juvenile offences is half of the period specified in Article 106 of this Penal Code.

Juvenile offenders subjected to court measures as specified in Article 87 of this Penal Code shall be considered as having never been convicted.
